To our stockholders:

In its 14th year as a publicly held company, McDonald's Corporation achieved its 14th consecutive year of record growth. Net income and net income per share each increased 19 percent. Systemwide sales were up 22 percent, and revenues rose 19 percent.

Net income for the year ending December 31, 1978, was $162,669,000, an increase of $25,973,000 above the 1977 total of $136,696,000. Net income per share was $4.00, $.63 more than the year-ago figure of $3.37.

Systemwide sales—sales by all franchised, Company-owned and affiliated restaurants—totaled $4,575,000,000, an increase of $837,000,000 over the 1977 sales of $3,738,000,000.

Revenues for the past year totaled $1,671,891,000, or $265,743,000 more than the $1,406,148,000 achieved in 1977.

At year-end stockholders' equity was $796,337,000, up $153,224,000 or 24 percent over 1977. In comparison, long-term debt was $782,781,000 at year-end, an increase of 14 percent over 1977.

Return on average assets for 1978 was 20.9 percent, and return on average equity, 22.6 percent.

During 1978 working capital generated from operations grew 21 percent to $255,988,000. These funds were 72 percent of 1978's expenditures for property and equipment, as compared with 70 percent in 1977.

Dividends per share in 1978 were $.32 as compared with $.15 in 1977.

Sales volumes for McDonald's restaurants open 13 months or more averaged $942,000 in 1978, a growth of 9.5 percent over 1977.

At year-end 1978 the McDonald's worldwide system included 5,185 restaurants, 514 more than at the close of 1977. Among the year's new restaurants was the first McDonald's in Belgium. Of the total restaurants, 4,465 are located in the United States and 720 in 24 other countries and territories. At December 31, 1978, an additional 171 restaurants, including 45 in international markets, were under construction.

Sixty-nine percent of the McDonald's restaurants—or 3,573—are operated by independent franchisees. In the United States 74 percent of the restaurants are franchised.

The Company celebrated the opening of the 5,000th restaurant in the system in October 1978. The festivities took place in Japan.

In 1978 systemwide sales for restaurants located outside the U.S. were $726,994,000—$230,471,000 or 46 percent more than the 1977 sales of $496,523,000, and more than double the sales in 1976, of $333,285,000.

To better acquaint you with our international growth in such areas as Canada, Central America, Europe, the Orient and the Pacific, we are featuring our international operations in this annual report. The special international article begins on page 4. The review of 1978 operations begins on page 20.

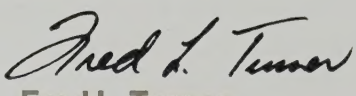

In 1978 net income as a percentage of corporate revenues was 9.7 percent, matching its highest level in the last five years. The Company achieved this level of profitability during a year in which both food and labor costs increased substantially (beef prices in December were 60 percent higher than a year ago, while the minimum wage rose to $2.65 per hour in 1978, up from $2.30 in 1977). The Company's basic approach to franchising (a mixture of franchised, Company-owned and affiliated restaurants in a diversity of geographical and economic settings), a significant investment in restaurant facilities and economies of scale in the Company's overall operation all have contributed to this performance in 1978. Development and retention of these restaurant facilities, accomplished wherever possible through outright ownership, distinguishes the Company today in the foodservice industry. Indicative of the economies of scale achieved in 1978 is the reduction in general, administrative and selling expenses relative to revenues to their lowest level in the last five years.

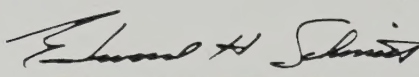

In the second quarter of the past year, the Company offered $100 million in 8⁵/₈ percent sinking fund notes at 99¹/₂ due in 1988.

The Company's Board of Directors elected several officers during the year. Named vice presidents were Robert T. Colvin, Robert L. Desatnick, John L. French, S. Bruce Wunner and Shelby Yastrow. Stanley R. Stein was elected an assistant vice president.

In closing, we cordially invite you to join us for the Annual Meeting of Stockholders at 10 a.m., Thursday, May 10, 1979, in the Oak Brook Theatre, Oak Brook, Illinois.

In southern Bavaria in the village of Garmisch, a young German family takes home dinner from McDonald's. Garmisch is nestled in the foothills of the German Alps, in the shadow of the 9,000-foot Zugspitze peak. The family wears the traditional clothing still common in Bavaria—a dirndl for women, lederhosen for men. When McDonald's came to Germany in 1971, the German people did not commonly eat the hamburger sandwich; moreover, German sandwiches were served on hard rolls and with sweet pickles. McDonald's introduced change. Today with more than 80 McDonald's in the country, the hamburger—on a soft bun and garnished with catsup, mustard, onions and dill pickles—is a favorite of the Germans.

German, Spanish or Japanese. Chinese, Dutch, French or Swedish. Flemish, Papiamentto, or Gaelic. English. No matter what the language, the message is the same: "Hamburger, French fries and a shake." Words which are repeated millions of times each day in McDonald's restaurants around the world.

A decade ago most McDonald's hamburgers, French fries and thick shakes were enjoyed in places as American as apple pie.

Today, however, people eat McDonald's products in ancient Oriental gardens, in the shadows of historic European cathedrals, in the parks of Sydney, on the busy streets of London, on beaches in the Bahamas.

A decade ago almost all McDonald's customers ordered in English.

Today those customers use 11 languages and many more dialects.

Where once most McDonald's visitors came by automobile, they now arrive at the restaurants on foot; by bicycle, tram, train or trolley; even by rickshaw.

From one restaurant in suburban Chicago, Illinois, McDonald's has grown—in just 24 years—into a world-famous organization, serving customers in the United States and 24 other countries and territories—locations in Asia, the Pacific, Europe and the Americas.

McDonald's famous Golden Arches now welcome customers not only in Washington, D.C., Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and Portland, Oregon, but also from Quebec to Hong Kong, Vienna and Brussels.

As McDonald's has grown into an international organization, its high standards have remained unchanged. McDonald's customers everywhere enjoy the same high quality of product, the same fast and efficient service, the same clean, fresh surroundings and the same good monetary value—in other words, the same Q.S.C. & V. (Quality, Service, Cleanliness and Value) which have guided McDonald's since the Company's beginning in 1955.

The first McDonald's restaurant outside the U.S. opened in 1967 in Canada's British Columbia province. The international expansion branched out from the Western Hemisphere in 1971 with the opening of the first McDonald's in Japan. By year-end 1973 McDonald's had 213 restaurants in 13 international countries and territories. As of December 31, 1978, McDonald's abroad had grown to 720 restaurants in 24 international locales.

Systemwide sales in the international area have demonstrated similar growth. Sales by international restaurants totaled $726,994,000 in 1978, as compared with 1973 sales of $87,203,000. This represents a compound annual growth rate of 53 percent over the past five years.

Overseeing McDonald's international operations is the Company's International Division, with headquarters in Oak Brook, Illinois. Chairman of the division is Steven J. Barnes, and president is G. Brent Cameron. Mr. Barnes oversees the expansion into countries new to McDonald's, while Mr. Cameron is responsible for the development and operations in existing international markets.

In 1975 McDonald's System of Europe was established. Headquartered in Frankfurt, Germany, it provides management, marketing and operational support to McDonald's European restaurants. In addition, McDonald's has offices in 25 international locations, including 10 offices in Canada.

In the U.S. 74 percent of the McDonald's restaurants are franchised to independent businesspeople; the remainder are Company-owned. However, to accommodate differing governmental requirements and business needs, McDonald's has three types of ownership within the International Division: Company-owned, affiliated (joint ventures between McDonald's and generally local businesspeople in the country) and franchised.

The Company determines which nations are appropriate markets by considering many factors, among them the economic, political and cultural climate of the country. Then McDonald's evaluates the availability of the elements which make a successful McDonald's business: good restaurant locations, local management people and employees, quality supplies and suppliers, advertising media and a large, mobile consumer population.

The McDonald's business in each country is headed by local management. Furthermore, the Company's policy is to employ local citizens in all positions: line, staff and crew. When the Company franchises individual restaurants within a country, the franchisees, too, are usually local citizens. All these people are thoroughly trained in the McDonald's system and its Q.S.C. & V. standards.

However, McDonald's means much more than jobs and career opportunities for a country and its people. McDonald's makes many other contributions to the economies of the countries in which it does business.

According to independent industry sources, McDonald's is the world's leading foodservice organization.

In this capacity, McDonald's brings to a country a wealth of technology in areas like food production, food processing, packaging, refrigeration, distribution and marketing.

The restaurants purchase as much of their food and supplies as possible from local sources and continually work to establish major domestic sources of supply. The restaurants also use local contractors, realtors, architects, banks, lawyers, accountants, advertising agencies and a variety of other local services.

Moreover, each restaurant strives to be an asset—a good neighbor—to its community by sponsoring and actively participating in civic and charitable events.

But, most importantly, McDonald's brings to international markets a restaurant that caters to great numbers of people, that provides convenient, affordable dining experiences which enable people to "eat out" more often.

In 1977, 119 international restaurants were added; in 1978, 134.

Within the foreseeable future the Company should open 200 new restaurants a year in markets outside the U.S.—as well as 300 to 400 domestic restaurants. Each of these will offer McDonald's internationally famous menu to the young, the old, the middle-aged; the men, women and children; the families of the world.

The revenue and income amounts shown in the above summary include: operations of wholly-owned subsidiaries (principally in Canada, Germany and Australia); fees from restaurants operated by independent franchisees (principally in Canada, Germany and other Western European countries, Australia and Central America); and the Company's fees and its share of net income or losses from affiliated companies (principally in Japan, England and Hong Kong). The data also reflects all foreign exchange gains and losses.

Company assets applicable to International Division operations are primarily located in Canada, Germany and Australia. Total assets also include the Company's investment in net assets of affiliated companies, principally located in Japan, England and Hong Kong.

Exchange rate fluctuations had an impact on the dollar amounts shown in the above table. For example, in 1978 the U.S. dollar weakened overall in comparison with foreign currencies and, thus, the percentage increase in total sales on a U.S. dollar basis is somewhat higher than on a local currency basis.

It's a custom in Japan for children ages seven, five and three to participate in the "seven-five-three" festival. Dressed in traditional kimonos, they visit a shrine to pay homage to the Shinto gods. As their mother pours water from a wooden dipper, the children wash their hands and mouths before saying their prayers. Her bag of McDonald's hamburgers, French fries and soft drinks will be a special treat after the ceremony. The first McDonald's in Japan opened seven years ago; at year-end 1978 Japan was "home" for 161 McDonald's.

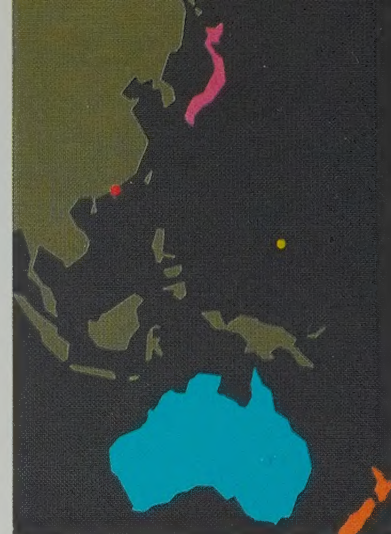

Halfway 'round the world in the Orient, Australia and the Pacific, McDonald's is a welcome neighbor.

McDonald's entered Japan, the Company's first market outside the Western Hemisphere, in 1971. The island of Guam and Australia were added later the same year. Then came Hong Kong in 1975 and New Zealand in 1976. At the end of 1978, McDonald's had a total of 267 restaurants in the Orient, Australia and the Pacific.

Wherever McDonald's goes, its products become popular favorites.

Whether their native dish is fish and rice, fish and chips or wienerschnitzel, people around the world are enthusiastic about McDonald's food. Perhaps the Japanese describe this feeling best. They call McDonald's fare "happy food."

Although eating tastes vary from country to country, McDonald's menu is accepted wherever it is introduced. People who 10 years ago were unfamiliar with McDonald's products or service, now queue up by the millions at McDonald's restaurants around the globe.

McDonald's has introduced new dining habits and customs to people in many countries.

For example, at the time McDonald's entered Japan, the Japanese used potatoes not so much as food, but to make various starches. When McDonald's entered Germany, most Germans never had seen a hamburger sandwich; to them a "hamburger" was someone from the city of Hamburg. Today French fries are common in Japan, and in Germany the word "hamburger" most often means a sandwich.

In Europe McDonald's was one of the first restaurants to which parents could comfortably bring their children, one of the first that welcomed children and encouraged family meals outside the home. Now such events are becoming commonplace.

McDonald's is such a local favorite in international markets that grand openings of restaurants are often major events. When a McDonald's in Hong Kong opened recently, the crowd was so large that the police temporarily closed the street to all vehicles.

Another indication of McDonald's popularity with the consumer is the rapid growth the system has demonstrated. McDonald's is now the largest foodservice organization in Canada, and after only seven years in Japan, the third largest in that country.

Individual restaurant sales volumes also demonstrate the scope of McDonald's international acceptance. The Company was in business some 16 years before one of its U.S. restaurants reached annual sales of $1 million. Yet the first McDonald's restaurants in seven international markets topped the $1 million mark during their first year of operation.

Today many of the higher dollar volume restaurants in the McDonald's system are in international markets.

McDonald's chooses restaurant buildings and sites that meet consumer needs.

Some McDonald's international markets—like Canada and Australia—most often build free-standing restaurants; many newer buildings have drive-thrus.

Other markets generally locate restaurants in existing buildings—some dating back to the

One of the world's perfect picnic spots is this park at Australia's Sydney Harbor where a local family enjoys a picnic lunch of McDonald's fare. In the background is the city's famous Harbor Bridge, as well as the Sydney Opera House, an award-winning building designed to symbolize the sails in the harbor. Australia, one of the Company's early international markets, had 86 McDonald's restaurants at year-end 1978. They serve a local favorite not found in McDonald's domestic markets: southern fried chicken.

McDonald's plans to open 100 new restaurants in the U.S. by 1980.

We've got it all.

19th century, a few even older.

McDonald's international restaurants come in many styles and sizes, and are found in some unusual locations. Consider:

A McDonald's in Brussels, Belgium, is located in a former hotel.

A McDonald's in Auckland, New Zealand, is in a renovated bank building.

A new restaurant in London, England, is on Baker Street, just a few doors down from the fictional home of Sherlock Holmes.

At the Hoyts Entertainment Center—a Sydney, Australia, theater complex—a below-ground McDonald's serves the patrons of seven theaters.

In Toronto, Canada, McDonald's welcomes the visitors at the Toronto Zoo.

In Utrecht, the Netherlands, is the first McDonald's restaurant in Europe to be built in an enclosed mall, a 1.5 million square foot shopping center.

A McDonald's in Cologne, Germany, is on the Hohe Strasse, a Roman market street dating back 2,000 years.

This variety of locations and buildings reflects the diversity in the cultures and markets of which McDonald's is a part, as well as the Company's ability to adapt to differing real estate situations. In some densely populated areas of Europe and Japan, for example, a single party may not own land of the size required for a typical McDonald's. Consequently, the Company's agreement for the premises could be with two or even three owners of adjacent properties. In some high-density areas, the solution is to build upward rather than outward, as McDonald's did at one Dublin, Ireland, site—a three-story restaurant.

In many countries of the world, land is a sign of wealth and is rarely sold. Land estates are kept intact and passed down by families from generation to generation. The estates then lease their properties. Since most countries permit extensive subleasing, one piece of property could have 15 or more coexistent subleases, some dating back hundreds of years. Of course, McDonald's need only negotiate with the most recent sublessee.

Wherever McDonald's builds, the Company strives to design its restaurants to blend in with the architecture and style of the country. The interior decors often reflect a national theme or interest.

Moreover, McDonald's has received citations for its building renovations; the most recent was an award from Erlangen, Germany, where the Company renovated a 100-year-old post office, preserving its architectural character while upgrading the structure.

McDonald's high standards begin with the basic products.

For McDonald's food to taste the same around the world, the raw products must be the same. The hamburger must be 100 percent beef with a specific, low, fat content; the ground beef must be formed into the right-sized patties; for example, the Quarter Pounder patty must have a pre-cooked weight of precisely four ounces. The potatoes must be top-quality and of a specific variety, with the size to yield long fry strands. Other products meet similar strict specifications.

Besides insisting upon standardized products, McDonald's also requires standardized handling procedures for raw products—from the point of production (such as meat plants and bakeries) through the distribution channel (with the necessary refrigerated trucks, loading and stacking methods) to the inspection and storage procedures at the restaurants. The Company stringently regulates each of these areas. An example is the meat; it must be refrigerated at a temperature not exceeding 0° F. (–18° C.) from the point of production until the point of preparation.

When entering an international market, McDonald's develops the supply system that meets its needs. Since the Company does not sell or distribute products to its restaurants, the

Hong Kong, one of the world's major trading centers, is a melting pot for the old and the new, for Eastern and Western cultures. Here one McDonald's customer leaves the restaurant in a traditional rickshaw, while some younger patrons sport

Western-style baseball caps. McDonald's entered Hong Kong in 1975. At year-end 1978 the market had 11 restaurants. Because Hong Kong is so densely populated, restaurants may be located within a few blocks of each other.

McDonald's
Hamburger Restaurant

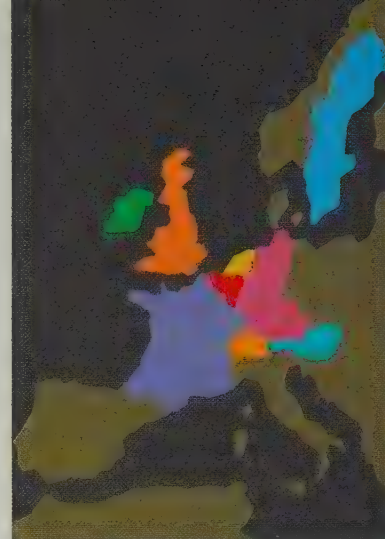

There's a world-famous restaurant in the cities and towns of Europe; it's called "McDonald's."

McDonald's first European markets were Germany and the Netherlands, both entered in 1971. Soon following were

France, in 1972; Sweden, in 1973; England, in 1974; Switzerland, in 1976; Austria and Ireland, in 1977; and Belgium, in 1978. At the close of 1978, the Company had a total of 142 restaurants in these countries.

restaurants generally purchase their food and paper supplies from local businesses. These merchants are frequently disbelieving, if not overwhelmed, when told that thousands of buns or hamburger patties will be needed daily.

Sometimes McDonald's arranges for new suppliers to train at the plant of an existing supplier. Or, the Company sends representatives of key U.S. suppliers into the new market to help the new supplier fine-tune his operation. When local suppliers cannot be found or developed, the restaurants import the necessary products.

International central distribution centers, similar to those in the U.S., are being established. The suppliers bring their products to the center, and then the center distributes them to hundreds of restaurants in the market. Such centers now exist in Canada and are being formed elsewhere.

People and training are the special ingredients of McDonald's worldwide success.

McDonald's not only means Q.S.C. & V. around the world. McDonald's also means jobs—part-time jobs, full-time jobs, first jobs, management jobs.

Like McDonald's crews in the U.S., those around the world tend to include many younger workers (especially students) and a number of housewives. However, because of local customs and labor laws, international crews generally have more full-time employees and a slightly higher average age than in America. In fact, in a few international markets, like Hong Kong and Japan, McDonald's was one of the first businesses to offer part-time jobs.

To be part of McDonald's team—either in management or on the crew—requires special training in the most modern foodservice techniques.

As in the United States, every McDonald's international market has a management development program which involves four steps: manager trainee, second assistant manager, first assistant and, finally, manager.

Many markets send their management people to Hamburger University, McDonald's management training center in suburban Chicago, where students hear the lectures via the university's simultaneous translation system. H.U. linguists skilled in French, German, Spanish, Japanese and Cantonese translate the course material and assist the attendees.

A "branch" campus of H.U. operates in Tokyo, a market where most new managers are recruited from college campuses. Several other markets have established management training centers which prepare prospective managers for their H.U. experiences. Both Australia and Germany have three centers; Canada has two; England, Holland, Hong Kong and Sweden each have one.

One of London's finest takes a break from his beat to buy lunch at McDonald's. The restaurant, on Shaftesbury Avenue at the edge of London's Soho area, is near the famous Piccadilly Circus. Take-out meals from McDonald's are popular with the British, who now are served by more than two dozen McDonald's restaurants, most located in the London area. The first McDonald's in England, the 3,000th in the McDonald's system, opened in 1974.

Crew training in international markets is handled in the restaurant by training supervisors and managers. Many of these specialists have spent time in U.S. restaurants studying training methods.

To supplement the on-the-floor training, markets use a variety of the latest audio and visual teaching aids, like videotape equipment and programmed instruction modules. These training materials are all developed by the Company, and many are locally translated to the native language.

The crucial training challenge in every international market occurs with its first restaurant. Before it opens, the market's managing director and two restaurant managers come to the U.S. for an intensified training course in the McDonald's system.

Upon returning home, the new management team begins to hire and train a crew. Unlike the U.S., where a new restaurant can bring in a 10- to 15-member crew nucleus from a nearby restaurant, new international markets train a complete staff, taking inexperienced people and quickly helping them become the fast, efficient crewpeople who symbolize McDonald's everywhere.

Like their counterparts in the U.S.,

McDonald's international crewpeople and managers have the opportunity for advancement within the McDonald's system. Many of the mid- and top-management people in the international structure began their McDonald's careers at the crew level.

McDonald's international franchising programs show significant expansion.

A franchise business like a McDonald's restaurant is one of the few entrepreneurial opportunities available in many countries. In international markets where McDonald's franchises restaurants, this business opportunity has generated considerable local interest.

At year-end 1978, 35 percent of the international McDonald's restaurants were franchised.

That tally is rapidly increasing. For example, since 1973 the number of franchised international restaurants has grown from 62 to 252.

The Company now franchises restaurants in 19 of its 24 international markets: Australia, Austria, the Bahamas, Canada, Costa Rica, El Salvador, France, Germany, Guatemala, Ireland, Japan, the Netherlands, the Netherlands Antilles, Nicaragua, Panama, Puerto Rico, Sweden, Switzerland and the Virgin Islands.

McDonald's has introduced or pioneered franchising in many of its international markets. In Germany, for example, businesspeople were not generally familiar with this type of business arrangement until McDonald's popularized it.

McDonald's franchise applicants, whether in Europe, the Pacific or the Americas, experience the same selection process. These men and women must have management experience, a good career track-record and sufficient capital to begin a business.

Who are the international franchisees? They have come from a variety of industries and professions, and include a former automobile dealer, frozen food distributor, military professional, supermarket consultant, professional football player, television producer and advertising agency director.

Because franchising and franchisees have been so essential to McDonald's success, the Company will continue to expand its franchising programs in international markets. A strong franchising program enhances the Company's opportunities for expansion, and offers a significant source of management talent and operational ideas.

From East to West McDonald's marketing messages beckon customers.

In the U.S. McDonald's says, "We do it all for you"; in Australia, "At McDonald's, we've got it all—for you"; in Germany, "McDonald's, eating with enjoyment"; in Japan, "McDonald's does it with taste"; in the Netherlands, "McDonald's restaurants . . . unusually good for your money"; and in England, "There's a difference at McDonald's you'll enjoy."

After a "fiaker" ride through Vienna, this Austrian family stops for lunch at McDonald's. Fiakers, horse-drawn coaches, were once the "taxicabs" of Vienna. Today they are still a popular tradition. The restaurant, facing onto Schwarzenberg Platz, is the first Austrian McDonald's. Like many McDonald's in Europe, it is in an urban area near offices and shops, and is located in an older, renovated building.

McDonald's

Americans, from Saskatchewan to Guatemala to the Bahamas, now enjoy McDonald's family restaurants.

The first restaurant in the McDonald's system opened in 1955 in Des Plaines, Illinois, U.S.A. McDonald's entered both Canada and Latin America in 1967. At year-end 1978 the Company had restaurants in nine Caribbean and Central American markets: the Bahamas, Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, the Netherlands Antilles, Nicaragua, Panama, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

McDonald's marketing messages may vary from country to country, but they all are based on the same philosophy: Q.S.C. & V.

Nineteen advertising agencies and three public relations firms, as well as several Company advertising managers, currently serve the McDonald's restaurants in international markets. The 1978 advertising expenditures for international restaurants totaled $35 million.

During the first several years McDonald's is in an international market, most of the advertising and promotion is of an introductory nature; it introduces customers to a new extensive point-of-purchase marketing materials. Most restaurants feature a photographic menu poster outside the entrance, and use full-color trayliners showing McDonald's menu items. This type of trayliner has since been adopted by the U.S. restaurants.

McDonald's restaurants in each of several areas—Canada, Germany, Australia, Latin America and the Netherlands—have organized advertising cooperatives through which they pool their advertising resources.

So that international markets can “plug” into the wealth of marketing information and expertise acquired by McDonald's over the past 24 years, the International Division sponsors many special courses and conferences.

Initiated in 1976, “Hamburger Marketing University” is an intensive two-week marketing course for international franchisees, ad agency personnel, advertising managers and operations managers. The division holds an annual International Advertising Agency/Managing Directors Conference that is a forum for the exchange of marketing ideas and programs. There is also an annual European Advertising Agency Conference for the McDonald's organization in Europe.

Who's the McFriendliest fellow in town?

Meet Ronald McDonald. He's the “McFriendly” clown in McDonald's towns in the Orient, the Pacific, Europe and, of course, the Americas.

As the goodwill ambassador of McDonald's company, to the McDonald's menu and to a new eating-out experience. The advertising also introduces children to a new friend: Ronald McDonald.

When developing a market, McDonald's attempts to use television commercials as often and as soon as possible. These commercials are directed to both adults and children. However, in some markets the access to commercial television is quite limited; thus, the Company also relies on other media: the cinema, radio, outdoor billboards, newspapers, magazines and direct mail.

Furthermore, all international markets use

McDonald's products are tasty anywhere—especially on the beautiful beaches of the Bahamas. McDonald's has one restaurant in the Bahamas. Located in the shopping arcade of a major hotel near Nassau's harbor, the restaurant opens both to the main tourist street and to the hotel courtyard. The restaurant is perhaps the most restaurants, Ronald is a special friend of children everywhere. He visits them at schools and in hospitals, marches in parades, appears at charity and civic events, and participates in the grand opening festivities of new McDonald's restaurants.

“international” in the McDonald's system. The franchisee, management and crew are all native Bahamians. But, because the Bahamas is a favorite vacation spot for Americans, Europeans and people from the Orient, the customers represent cultures from East to West.

Ronald was busy around the world in 1978:

In Nuremburg, Germany, he was the ringmaster of a special circus, the proceeds from which went to charity.

In London, England, he made Christmas visits to 16 hospitals.

On International Children's Day, Ronald was in Panama City, Panama, entertaining 140 children at the Red Cross Nursery.

He rode in Tokyo's Ginza Festival parade.

In fact, Ronald made appearances wherever McDonald's restaurants are found.

Ronald first arrived on the McDonald's scene in 1963 in the Washington, D.C., area. In 1967 McDonald's Corporation named Ronald the Company's spokesman to children, and Ronald made his first appearance on U.S. national television, starring in a McDonald's commercial.

In recent years, since McDonald's has expanded around the world, Ronald has learned to speak 10 new languages and has been seen in television commercials in 17 countries.

Everywhere he goes, Ronald wears the same red-and-yellow suit and the same big smile. But, in Japan, where the "R" sound is not part of the language, he is known as "Donald McDonald"; and in Hong Kong, where family relationships are particularly strong, he is sometimes called Uncle McDonald.

Being an international celebrity hasn't changed Ronald. His favorite people are still children, and his favorite food is still the hamburger.

As neighborhood businesses around the world, McDonald's restaurants are committed to their communities.

As McDonald's grows around the world, the Company's community spirit goes along.

McDonald's restaurants everywhere are committed to being good neighbors, businesses which provide a service to the community. This service includes not only the Q.S.C. & V. McDonald's delivers in its restaurants every day, but also a commitment to the welfare of the community as a whole.

McDonald's restaurants traditionally participate in a wide range of civic and charitable programs.

Examples from around the world during 1978 include:

All McDonald's restaurants in Canada took part in McHappy Day, a day when the restaurants donated total sales of Big Mac sandwiches to local community organizations that assist crippled children.

The McDonald's restaurants in Australia's state of Victoria were the largest single contributor to the Yooralla telethon, a benefit for a state-wide organization which assists physically disabled adults and children.

In New Zealand McDonald's recognized primary and intermediate school pedestrian crossing patrollers by treating them to a special party.

Among the programs sponsored by McDonald's in Ireland was a "Lite-A-Bike" project. As part of it, the restaurants distributed bicycle safety information throughout Dublin.

The Swedish McDonald's restaurants were one of the sponsors of the Stockholm Tennis Open.

Through these and hundreds of other events and programs, McDonald's contributed to the general welfare of its neighborhoods and communities. By being a concerned neighbor, McDonald's has truly become a concerned citizen around the world.

After a grueling hockey game, there's nothing like a Big Mac, fries and a shake. So say the Burlington "Big Macs," a hockey team sponsored by the McDonald's restaurants in Burlington, Ontario, Canada. The team of 13-year-olds plays in a Burlington hockey league and has won three tournaments throughout Ontario province. The "Big Macs" recently played a series of games with a team from Detroit, Michigan, U.S.A. At year-end 1978 Canada, McDonald's first international market, had 293 restaurants located in all of the country's 10 provinces.

Year in review: operations

The year 1978 marked a milestone for McDonald's Corporation: The opening of the 5,000th restaurant in McDonald's worldwide system, an event which was celebrated in October in Japan.

The Company added 514 restaurants to the system during the year, 380 in the United States and 134 in international markets. This brought the total number at year-end to 5,185—or 4,465 in the U.S. and 720 in 24 other countries and territories. Of the total restaurants, 3,573 are franchised, 1,406 Company-owned and 206 affiliated (joint ventures between McDonald's and local businesspeople in countries outside the U.S.).

Average 1978 sales for a McDonald's restaurant open 13 months or more were $942,000, an increase of 9.5 percent over 1977. The comparable increase in 1977 over 1976 was 8.7 percent. In 1978, 35 restaurants had sales topping $2 million, and 1,671 achieved sales of $1 million or more.

A decade ago most McDonald's restaurants were located in suburban areas in the U.S. Today the restaurants are found not only where people live, but also where they conduct business or spend their leisure time. The success of these restaurants illustrates that the McDonald's concept is adaptable to—and successful in—a multitude of locations and situations, from small towns to shopping malls and office buildings.

For example, in 1978 McDonald's opened restaurants on Chicago's Michigan Avenue; in Atlanta's Omni International, a hotel/convention/shopping/recreation center; and in Houston's Galleria Mall.

At year-end McDonald's had 680 locations in malls and in-stores (store-front restaurants in shopping and/or business areas) in operation worldwide, including 77 mall and 262 in-store locations in North America.

The Company's policy is to own as many restaurant facilities as economically feasible. In 1978 the Company purchased 70 percent of all new sites and bought an additional 40 sites that previously were leased. At year-end McDonald's owned 2,804 of its real estate locations worldwide.

As the locations of McDonald's restaurants have become more diverse, so has the restaurant architecture. Restaurants built during 1978 ranged from the traditional free-standing building with the mansard roof to an ultra-modern, steel-and-stucco, two-story building on a downtown San Francisco street corner.

The year 1978 brought significant growth of the drive-thru concept. McDonald's built its first drive-thru in 1975. At the close of 1978, 1,891 were in operation, including 1,834 in the U.S., with the balance in Canada, Australia, Japan, New Zealand and the Caribbean. Of the 880 drive-thrus built in 1978, 552 were additions to existing restaurants.

Most McDonald's restaurants built in recent years feature a special theme that is reflected in the interior decor. These themes may be generic or related to a specific locale or historical period. For example, a new restaurant in Bolingbrook, Illinois, has a garden decor, while another in Durango, Colorado, has an 1880s railroad theme complete with a railroad station tower mounted on the restaurant's roof.

To ensure that each McDonald's restaurant offers a clean, pleasant place to eat, McDonald's continually remodels and upgrades its restaurants. Such efforts often include restaurant expansion, new seating packages or other new decor. Today almost all McDonald's have seating. The average number of seats in recent restaurants in the U.S. is approximately 120.

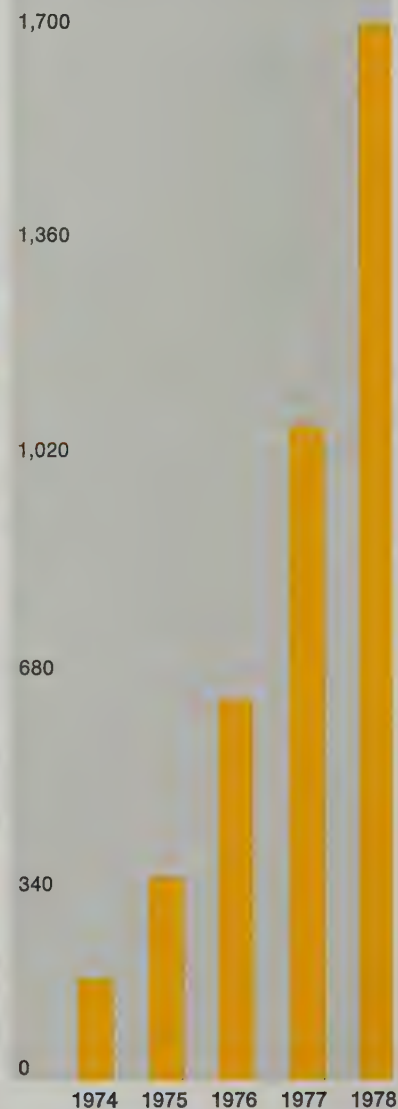

In 1978 McDonald's Corporation again honored 102 of the best high school musicians in the United States through membership in the 12th annual McDonald's All-American High School Band. On the 1978 band's agenda were appearances in the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade in New York City and in the Tournament of Roses Parade in Pasadena, California, as well as a concert in Carnegie Hall.

McDonald's Corporation celebrated the opening of its 5,000th restaurant on October 19, 1978. The ceremonies took place in a new McDonald's restaurant in Fujisawa City, Japan. Among the celebrities attending the festivities was Ronald McDonald, who is known as Donald McDonald in Japan.

Number of restaurants with sales over $1,000,000

McDonald's energy conservation program includes both construction and equipment innovations as well as operational efforts. As a consequence of this ongoing program, the Company experienced additional energy savings in 1978.

In 1978 the Company introduced an "energy investment" program designed to help update the buildings and equipment of older restaurants to make them more energy-efficient. The program will help make older McDonald's as energy-saving as the newer restaurants through such improvements as added ceiling insulation, insulated windows and insulated vestibules.

McDonald's sold more products than ever before in 1978, including the Company's 28 billionth hamburger. Customers enjoyed McDonald's products for breakfast, lunch, dinner and in between.

In North America breakfast amounted to 15 percent of total 1978 sales. The Company extended sundaes—hot fudge, hot caramel and strawberry—into all restaurants in the U.S., Canada, Australia and Sweden.

McDonald's restaurants buy from independent purveyors whose products meet the system's strict specifications. Most of the hamburger, fish and potatoes served in McDonald's restaurants in the U.S. and Canada come from processors who principally supply McDonald's restaurants.

More than 85 percent of the restaurants in North America obtain their supplies through central distribution centers that handle the products—food and other items—needed in a McDonald's. Similar centers are being developed in several McDonald's markets abroad.

McDonald's franchisees, approximately 1,350 men and women, are a select group of businesspeople.

The Company encourages open and frequent communication between itself and its franchisees. One major forum for this is the periodic meetings of the National Operators Advisory Board (NOAB), a representative body of 42 franchisees. Many productive ideas in such areas as menu, equipment, training and marketing have resulted from the exchange of views in this forum.

McDonald's continues to provide the most sophisticated restaurant management training programs in the foodservice industry.

In 1978 Hamburger University, McDonald's management training center, graduated its 15,000th student—one of the 1,741 franchisees, restaurant managers and corporate personnel to receive a Bachelor of Hamburgerology degree during 1978.

Another 76 experienced McDonald's people received Masters of Hamburgerology degrees after taking advanced study at the university.

The Company opened five new regional training centers during the year—centers at the regional headquarters where managers receive training that supplements their in-restaurant and Hamburger U. experiences. The new centers—in Washington, D.C.; Albany, New York; Houston, Texas; Fort Lauderdale, Florida; and New Orleans, Louisiana—bring to 40 the number of centers in the U.S.

McDonald's also uses the most modern training procedures to instruct restaurant crews. Besides on-the-job experience, manuals and other training aids, all restaurants use sophisticated audio-visual training tools. More than 1,400 restaurants are equipped with new video monitors used to show training films to crew-people and managers. Other McDonald's restaurants use filmstrips as training aids. Within the next year McDonald's expects to have video monitors in more than half of the system's restaurants.

On May 7, 1978, McDonald's recognized American kids with a day of their own: Kids' Day. Each of the seven million youngsters who visited a McDonald's restaurant on that day received a free sundae and a special prize.

Ronald McDonald Houses are homes near children's hospitals where families of seriously-ill youngsters can stay free or for a nominal fee. The family may live there while the child is hospitalized or receiving extended outpatient treatment. Many families, like the one below, who have stayed at one of the homes, become involved with the project, donating time, skills and furnishings. Houses are now in operation in Philadelphia, Chicago and Denver, and 27 additional ones are under construction or in planning. The homes are supported by the McDonald's restaurants in the area and civic groups.

Some 3,500 franchisees, corporate management, suppliers and agency consultants attended the 1978 Owner/Operator Meeting. The Company holds numerous meetings for franchisees, corporate staff and suppliers. Among other 1978 meetings were national meetings for the accounting, real estate and operations staffs, restaurant managers, and department heads; a community marketing meeting for local advertising agencies and STAR personnel; and a national advertising meeting.

For the third consecutive year, McDonald's Corporation and its franchisees jointly underwrote the award-winning children's series, "Once Upon A Classic," which is telecast nationally on the Public Broadcasting System (PBS).

A variety of advertising campaigns attracted customers to McDonald's restaurants during 1978. Starting the year off was the "Quarter Pounder People" theme, followed by promotions for breakfast and sundaes. Next, McDonald's saluted the families of America, awarding free family reunions nationally and at each participating restaurant. The second half of 1978 featured the "Big Mac keeps you comin' back," "Keep your eyes on your fries" and "There's more in the middle of an Egg McMuffin than an egg in the middle of a muffin" campaigns, as well as a Christmas gift certificate promotion.

On May 7, 1978, the Company recognized some very special customers with a day of their own: Kids' Day. Each of the millions of youngsters visiting McDonald's that day received a free sundae and a surprise gift.

The Company continued to emphasize local restaurant marketing programs during the year. A significant number of restaurants employ STAR (Store Activities Representative) personnel who implement marketing programs at the restaurant level. The past year marked the national introduction of a formal STAR training program.

Directing McDonald's marketing programs is a corporate marketing department, with offices at the Oak Brook headquarters and in each region. Assisting the department are national advertising, promotion and public relations agencies. Another 102 agencies, including 80 in the U.S., implement marketing programs at the local level.

McDonald's restaurants in the U.S. voluntarily contribute a percentage of sales to OPNAD, the Operators National Advertising Fund. These monies are used to purchase national advertising, while the Corporation pays the cost of advertising production. The restaurants also pay an additional percentage of sales to local advertising cooperatives. McDonald's restaurants abroad make similar marketing contributions in their own markets.

Worldwide McDonald's and its franchisees invested approximately $215 million in advertising during 1978; this total includes $180 million in the U.S.

McDonald's has always encouraged its restaurants to participate in their communities through involvement in civic and charitable programs.

During the year local markets and individual restaurants supported thousands of community projects, from raising monies for local charities, to cleaning up city parks, to spearheading the establishment of Ronald McDonald House programs (special lodging facilities near children's hospitals).

On a national scale the Company continued to support a variety of civic programs: McDonald's All-American High School Basketball Team, the National Children's Arts Festival, the Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association, McDonald's All-American High School Band and the 1978 season of the public television series "Once Upon A Classic."

The Company also continued distributing educational films on such topics as bicycle safety, home safety, ecology and immunology, and three elementary school "Action Packs"—teaching programs in ecology, nutrition and economics.

Furthermore, in 1978 the Corporation contributed to more than 200 not-for-profit organizations. Through these contributions, the Company helped support the development of programs that address social, economic and environmental problems where McDonald's, its employees and its customers live and do business.

The first McDonald's restaurants were generally located in suburban areas. Today the restaurants are found not only in suburbs, but also in downtowns, shopping malls and recreation areas—wherever people live, work or play.

At year-end 1978, 187 McDonald's restaurants were also the homes of McDonaldland Parks similar to the one pictured below. All recreational equipment in the parks has a McDonaldland theme; for example, a Captain Crook slide or a Big Mac jungle gym. In 1978 McDonald's built 51 outdoor parks and expanded the concept of indoor McDonaldland Parks.

Back in the United States and the state of Florida is this McDonald's, located in Lighthouse Point, a town on Florida's Atlantic seaboard. The restaurant is typical of the free-standing mansard roof buildings which have symbolized McDonald's since their introduction in 1968. And, like so many McDonald's, this restaurant's interior design centers on a special theme characteristic of the locale. What is the theme? Lighthouses.

Year in review: financial

McDonald's continued to establish new records in 1978. Systemwide sales for the year totaled $4.6 billion, total revenues rose to over $1.6 billion, net income exceeded $162 million, net income per share reached $4, and total assets approached the $2 billion mark. During the year the Company again increased the dividend on its common stock. This review examines these achievements more closely and points out some five-year comparisons.

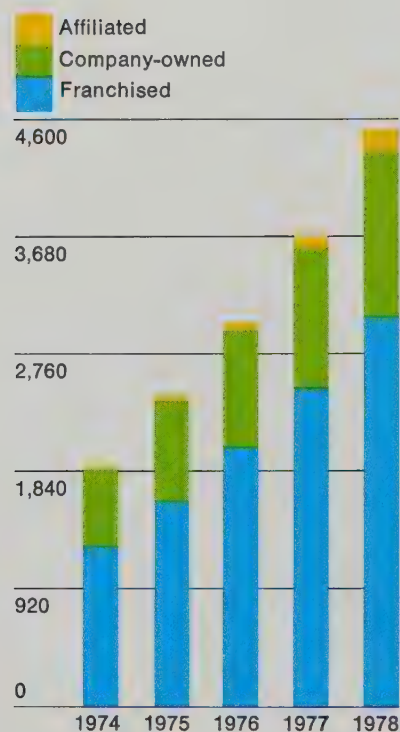

Systemwide sales

Systemwide sales—1978

Systemwide sales of $4,575,000,000 in 1978 represent an increase of 22% or $837,000,000 over 1977 sales of $3,738,000,000. The 1978 sales are more than 3 times the 1973 sales of $1,507,000,000. The compounded annual growth rate of systemwide sales during this time period was 25%.

Systemwide sales in millions of dollars

Increase in systemwide sales in millions of dollars

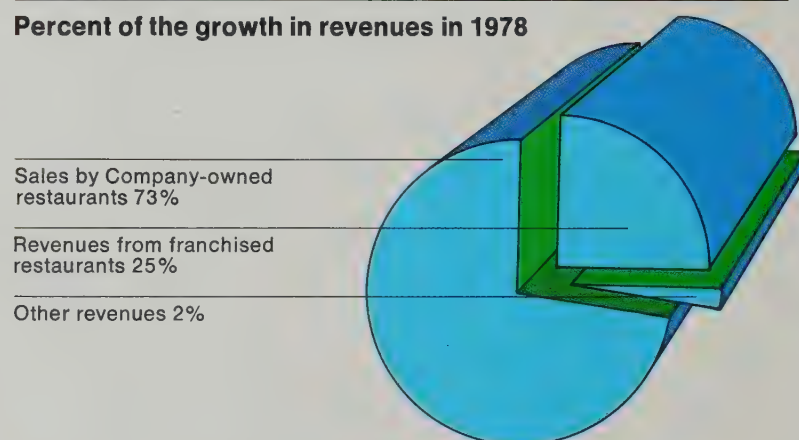

This growth was a result of sales by 2,468 new restaurants added during this five year period and the increase in average sales of existing restaurants which in part reflects price increases. The average sales by restaurants open 13 months or more in 1978 were $942,000, in 1977 were $857,000 and in 1973 were $622,000.

Revenues

Revenues totalled $1,671,891,000 in 1978, an increase of $265,743,000 over 1977 revenues of $1,406,148,000. The compounded growth rate of revenues for the last five years was 22%, increasing from $624,254,000 in 1973. Revenues include (a) sales by Company-owned restaurants, (b) revenues from franchised restaurants and (c) other revenues, including gains on sales of Company-owned restaurant businesses and interest income.

Revenues from franchised restaurants consist primarily of fees required by agreements which are part of the overall franchise arrangement with each franchisee. These agreements provide for payments to the Company based upon a percentage of sales, with a specified minimum payment. Under the current agreements, the total fees generally amount to 11.5% of a restaurant's sales.

Increases in total revenues are due principally to the opening of new restaurants and the increased sales from existing restaurants. Although price increases do contribute to the growth in revenues, it is impractical to accurately determine their impact because of the lack of uniform pricing throughout the system and variances in product mix.

Operating results

One of the principal reasons the Company has been able to maintain a growth in net income, which relates to growth in revenues, is its ability to maintain profit percentages on both Sales by Company-owned restaurants and Revenues from franchised restaurants. The following table sets forth for each revenue category the consolidated percentage profit before general, administrative and selling expenses, interest expense and income taxes for the most recent five years.

	1978	1977	1976	1975	1974
Sales by Company-owned restaurants	17%	18%	19%	19%	18%
Revenues from franchised restaurants	87	86	86	86	86

The Company-owned restaurant percentages indicated above generally reflect the Company's ability to adjust menu prices to compensate for increased costs and expenses.

The stability in percentages for franchised restaurants results from an increase in the percentage fees generated by higher average sales in the restaurants, offset somewhat by higher occupancy costs of new sites.

Also, the number of new franchised restaurants opened since January 1970, when the current percentage rates totalling 11.5% became effective, represents a greater portion of restaurants in operation. Percentage fees under earlier franchise arrangements generally range from 7.9% to 11%.

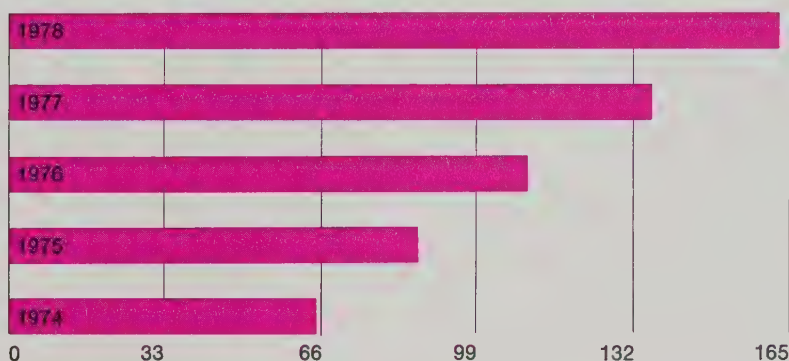

Net income

Net income for 1978 amounted to $162,669,000, an increase of 19% over 1977 net income of $136,696,000. Net income during the last five years has increased at a compounded annual growth rate of 27%, increasing from $49,505,000 in 1973.

Fortune Magazine, in its July 1978 issue, ranked the fifty largest "retailing" companies. McDonald's was included in this category and was first in compounded growth rate in earnings per share—33% over the ten-year period ended December 31, 1977. The company was also first in net income as a percent of "operating" revenues—9.9% in 1977. The compounded growth rate in earnings per share for the ten years ended December 31, 1978, was 30% and in 1978 net income as a percent of "operating" revenues was also 9.9%.

Restaurants opened during 1978 added $196,000,000 to the systemwide sales increase for that year; 1977 openings added $165,000,000 to systemwide sales in 1977. Average sales of restaurants open 13 months or more at year end increased 9.5% in 1978 and 8.7% in 1977 over comparable periods of the preceding year for which they were open. The percentage increase in Revenues from franchised restaurants in each year was greater than the percentage increase in Company-owned restaurants' sales because of the greater percentage increase in the number of franchised restaurants. The number of franchised restaurants increased by 389 or 12% in 1978 and 343 or 12% in 1977, as compared to an increase in the number of Company-owned restaurants of 68 or 5% in 1978 and 121 or 10% in 1977. Costs and expenses related to Company-owned restaurants had a greater percentage increase than Sales by Company-owned restaurants in 1978 due principally to a substantial escalation of meat costs and higher labor costs attributable to an increase in the minimum wage. The increase in General, administrative and selling expenses over the comparable year ago periods is indicative of the Company's expanded level of operations in each year. A greater number of employees and a growing international market have both contributed to increases in General, administrative and selling expenses. Interest expense is also higher, resulting from additional financing for new restaurant properties acquired over the last three years and reflecting the Company's continued emphasis on owning restaurant properties versus leasing. The Company feels that such ownership will yield long-term benefits, among which are the anticipated continuation of appreciation in real estate values and the contrainflationary advantages of owning versus leasing.

International Division operations

The growth of the Company's International Division operations continued in 1978. Expansion outside the United States is accomplished through restaurants owned by 1) the Company—through wholly-owned subsidiaries, 2) franchisees—individuals granted franchises by the Company, a wholly-owned subsidiary, or an affiliate, and 3) affiliates—companies where McDonald's equity is 50% or less and the remaining equity is generally owned by a resident national.

The following table shows the number of International Division restaurants for each category and their respective sales for the last five years.

The number of International Division restaurants has more than tripled in the last five years, going from 213 at December 31, 1973 to 720 at December 31, 1978. Sales were $726,994,000 for 1978, more than 8 times the 1973 sales of $87,203,000, a compounded annual growth rate of 53%.

An analysis of the revenues resulting from International Division operations and the direct costs applicable thereto follows. The amounts include—operations of wholly-owned subsidiaries, fees from restaurants operated by independent franchisees, fees from affiliates (included in Revenues from franchised restaurants) and the Company's share of results of operations of affiliated companies. Certain of the fees are received in the United States. The data also reflects all foreign exchange gains and losses.

Company revenues resulting from International Division operations have increased from $52,379,000 in 1973 to $311,693,000 in 1978, a compounded annual growth rate of 43%. The contribution to consolidated Income before general, administrative and selling expenses, interest expense and income taxes by International Division operations has grown from $8,465,000 in 1973 to $71,972,000 in 1978, a compounded annual growth rate of 53% for the five-year period. In both of these respects, International Division operations have become an increasing percentage of the corresponding consolidated amounts, as illustrated by the following table.

Consolidated balance sheet—growth in 1978

Percent of the increase in total assets:

Property and equipment, net 86%

Other assets 14%

Source of funding for increase in total assets:

Stockholders' equity 50%

Long-term debt 31%

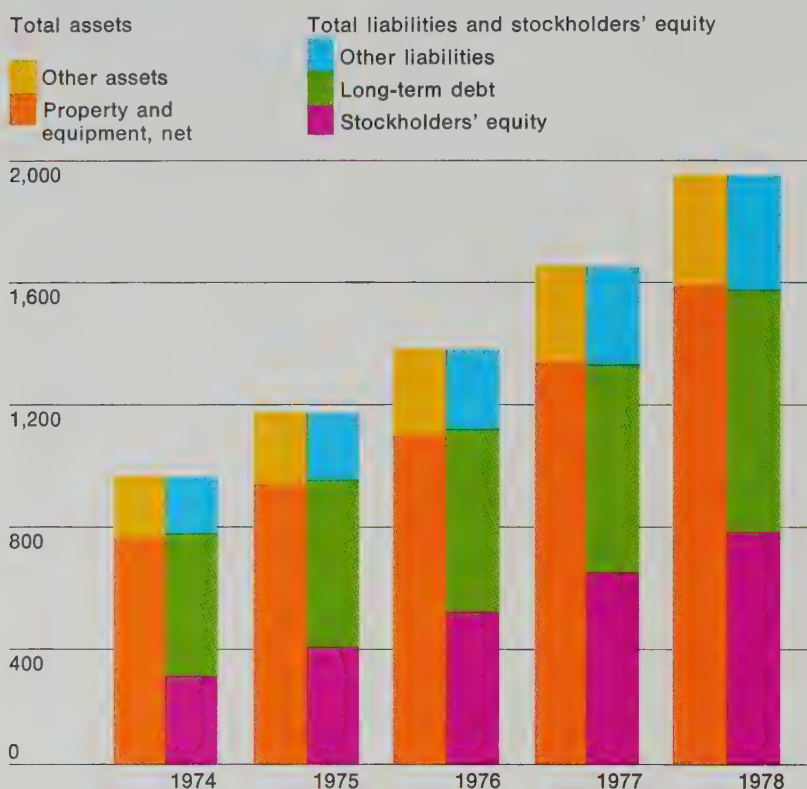

Other liabilities 19%

Total assets amounted to $1,953,489,000 at December 31, 1978 almost three times the total assets of $723,579,000 in 1973. Net property and equipment was $1,597,773,000 at December 31, 1978 or 82% of total assets. In recent years, expenditures for property and equipment have represented the Company's single largest use of funds generated from operations.

As planned, current assets continue to be less than current liabilities. During 1978, inventory turned over 39 times. With such high velocity of cash, ample funds are available to meet current obligations; therefore, a current ratio of 1:1 is neither necessary nor desirable.

The investment of funds in new and existing restaurants and other facilities is summarized as follows for the years 1974 through 1978:

	1978	1977	1976	1975	1974
(In thousands of dollars)
Restaurants opened during year—
Land and buildings, less construction in progress at beginning of year	$174,200	$154,200	$135,700	$130,200	$129,500
Equipment	27,100	24,000	20,100	20,800	19,500
	201,300	178,200	155,800	151,000	149,000
Existing restaurants—
Expansions, remodelings and improvements	37,000	30,800	20,800	24,200	24,100
Equipment	34,000	27,100	16,400	14,500	14,000
Acquisitions of properties previously leased and properties for additional parking	11,900	10,100	8,800	10,000	19,800
	82,900	68,000	46,000	48,700	57,900
Other expenditures, principally construction in progress	69,895	55,436	31,327	28,138	37,034
	$354,095	$301,636	$233,127	$227,838	$243,934

The 1978 and 1977 increases in expenditures on existing restaurants resulted primarily from equipment required for new product introductions, the installation of drive-thru facilities and new point-of-sale equipment. Refurbishing expenditures in connection with restaurants acquired also increased in the last two years.

The amount of capital required is also dependent upon the cost of land, buildings and equipment, and the number of restaurants added during the year. The following table shows approximate average costs for United States and Canadian restaurant properties for the last five years:

	1978	1977	1976	1975	1974
Land	$130,000	$129,000	$119,000	$121,000	$121,000
Buildings	331,000	290,000	264,000	252,000	217,000
Equipment	189,000	173,000	151,000	129,000	114,000
	$650,000	$592,000	$534,000	$502,000	$452,000

The funds generated from operations in 1978 were $255,988,000 or 72% of expenditures for property and equipment during the year. In 1977 such funds generated were 70% of the property and equipment acquired in that year.

Working capital generated from operations in millions of dollars

The increase in stockholders' equity for 1978 totalled $153,224,000, exceeding by $58,374,000, or 62%, the 1978 increase in long-term debt of $94,850,000. For 1977, stockholders' equity increased $126,423,000 and long-term debt increased $90,406,000.

The returns on average equity and average total assets, and net income as a percentage of total revenues for the last five years follows:

	1978	1977	1976	1975	1974
Return on average equity	22.6%	23.6%	23.6%	23.9%	22.7%
Return on average total assets	20.9	21.4	20.9	20.5	19.9
Net income as a percentage of total revenues	9.7	9.7	9.3	8.9	8.3

The return on average total assets is computed by using income before taxes and interest; net income was used to calculate the return on average equity.

Book value per common share has increased from $6.37 at December 31, 1973 to $19.66 at December 31, 1978, a compounded annual growth rate of 25%.

Common stock

During 1978, the Company increased its quarterly dividend rate on common stock from 5¢ to 9¢ per share. This increase reflects the Company’s ability to increase dividends while concurrently providing the funds required for continued growth. The Company will consider additional dividend increases as warranted by future business conditions.

The Company’s common stock is listed on the New York, Midwest, Pacific and Toronto Stock Exchanges. The market price ranges on the New York Stock Exchange, representing the high and low closing price for the periods indicated, were as follows:

	Market price range
	1978	1977
First quarter	$50½—44¼	$53 —39¾
Second quarter	57¾—45	46½—38
Third quarter	60⅞—50¼	50⅞—45⅞
Fourth quarter	52⅞—45⅜	52½—45⅜

The graph below shows the relative growth of earnings in the last 10 years. For example, the net income in 1978 of $162,669,000 was 11.2 times the net income of $14,512,000 in 1969.

The graph also shows the relative growth in dividends from May 1976, when the Company declared its first quarterly dividend, to 1978 when dividends declared amounted to $12,949,000 or 3.2 times the $4,021,000 declared in 1976.

This uninterrupted growth in corporate net income was achieved in a span of years marked by events that otherwise depressed the economy and the stock market. There were recessions in 1969-1970 and 1973-1974; the oil embargo from October 1973 to March 1974; high beef costs in 1973, 1974, and 1978. In addition, there were the wage and price controls in 1971-1974; high interest rates (12% in July 1974); the increases in the minimum wage; and double digit inflation. However, in spite of these factors, the direction of the Company’s profitability remained unaltered. The Company experienced continued increases in demand for its products, and maintained its expansion program nationally and internationally to accommodate its growing market.

Relative growth: net income—1969-1978; dividends—1976-1978.

Summary of significant accounting policies

Consolidation policy

The consolidated financial statements include the accounts of the Company and its subsidiaries. Investments in 50% or less owned affiliates, whose operations are not material to the consolidated financial statements, are carried at equity in the companies' net assets.

All significant intercompany transactions are eliminated in consolidation.

Property and equipment

Additions to property for new restaurants include interest, rent charges and real estate taxes incurred through the development period. Depreciation and amortization are provided on the straight line method over the following estimated useful lives: restaurant buildings—principally 25 years; restaurant equipment and signs—principally 10 years; furniture, fixtures and other equipment—3 to 10 years; leasehold improvements—lesser of useful life of assets or terms of leases (including option periods); and property under capital leases—terms of leases.

Expenditures for maintenance and repairs are charged to expense as incurred. Expenditures for betterments and renewals are capitalized. Upon sale or other retirement of depreciable property, the cost and accumulated depreciation are removed from the accounts and any gain or loss is included in income.

Franchise and operating rights

Costs applicable to the underlying rights to the McDonald's System acquired by the Company in 1961 are not being amortized. The costs allocated to unlimited term franchise rights reacquired after October 1970 are being amortized on the straight line method over 40 years. The costs allocated to such rights reacquired prior to November 1970 are not being amortized. The costs allocated to limited term franchise rights reacquired from franchisees are being amortized on the straight line method over their estimated lives.

Revenue recognition

Initial location and license fees are recorded as income when the related restaurant is opened. Expenses associated with site assignment and the issuance of franchise agreements are charged to expense as incurred.

Continuing fees from franchised restaurants are recorded as income on the accrual basis as earned.

Gains on sales of Company-owned restaurant businesses are recorded as income when the sales are consummated and other stipulated conditions are met.

Income taxes

United States income taxes have not been accrued on undistributed earnings of subsidiaries and affiliates operating outside the United States as the Company considers such earnings to be permanently invested in the businesses. Income tax provisions on such earnings, if distributed, would not be material due to the availability of foreign tax credits.

Investment tax credits are accounted for on the flow-through method as a reduction of income tax provisions.

Debt issuance cost

Issuance cost of long-term debt is deferred and amortized over the repayment term.

Foreign currency translation

Balance sheet items recorded in currencies other than U.S. dollars are translated at current exchange rates except for property and equipment, intangible assets, inventories, prepaid expenses and deferred income taxes, which are translated at historical rates. Revenue and expenses are translated at average rates of exchange for the period except that depreciation and amortization are translated at historical rates. All foreign currency exchange gains and losses including those resulting from foreign exchange hedging contracts are recorded in income currently.

Restaurant acquisitions, dispositions and number of restaurants in operation

During the five years ended December 31, 1978, the Company acquired restaurant businesses (including related territorial rights) from franchisees in transactions accounted for as purchases, and sold restaurant businesses to franchisees as follows:

Purchased			Sold
	Number of restaurant businesses	Approximate purchase price	Number of restaurant businesses
(In thousands of dollars)
1978	29	$ 7,800	82
1977	71	21,900	79
1976	21	6,100	85
1975	20	4,700	52
1974	14	2,800	54

The number of restaurant businesses sold includes those resulting from the exercise of purchase options included in the lease agreements as follows: 1978—42; 1977—35; 1976—63; 1975—27; and 1974—20.

Results of operations of restaurant businesses purchased have been included in the consolidated financial statements since dates of acquisition. The results of operations of such businesses for periods prior to purchase and the results of operations of restaurant businesses sold, prior to their sale dates, were not material to the consolidated financial statements. Gains on sales of Company-owned restaurant businesses are shown separately in the consolidated statement of income.

The number of restaurant businesses (including related territorial rights) acquired from franchisees in pooling of interests transactions were 58 in 1976, 36 in 1975 and 17 in 1974. Common shares issued in these transactions and their market value were as follows: 1976—447,973 shares ($24,950,000); 1975—278,413 shares ($11,960,000); and 1974—109,423 shares ($6,040,000). No restaurant businesses were pooled in 1978 or 1977.

The table below shows the number of restaurant businesses in operation at the beginning and end of each of the last five years.

Segment information and foreign operations

The Company operates in one industry segment. All significant revenues relate to over-the-counter sales of food products to the general public, whether the restaurants involved are operated by the Company or its franchisees.

Restaurants are located in the United States and in foreign markets. Of the 5,185 restaurants in operation at December 31, 1978, 720 were operating outside of the United States. Of the foreign restaurants, 293 are located in Canada, and the remaining 427 are located in 23 other international markets.

Financial information for the years 1974 through 1978 applicable to the major geographic areas in which the Company operates, and a reconciliation of such information with amounts shown in the consolidated statement of income follows. All areas outside of the United States and Canada are combined in the line captioned—Other International.

U.S. revenues include, in part, fees received in the United States from independent franchisees, 50% or less owned affiliates and subsidiaries operating outside of the United States based upon a percentage of sales of such entities as stipulated in various agreements. Canadian and Other International revenues include the Company's share of 50% or less owned foreign affiliates' results of operations and all foreign currency exchange gains and losses including those resulting from hedging contracts.

In computing operating income, all expenses attributable to each geographic area, except interest expense, are taken into consideration. Since fees paid by foreign subsidiaries are included in United States revenues, Canadian and Other International operating income include corresponding amounts deducted as expense.

Included in consolidated net income as well as in Canadian and Other International revenues and operating income are the following foreign currency exchange gains (losses): 1978—$(1,135,000); 1977—$797,000; 1976—$(42,000); 1975—$1,496,000; and 1974—$628,000.

Identifiable assets applicable to each geographic area at December 31, 1978 and 1977, respectively, are as follows: United States—$1,618,799,000 and $1,400,422,000; Canada—$176,785,000 and $141,136,000; and Other International—$157,905,000 and $103,597,000.

Property and equipment

Owned property and equipment consists of the following at December 31, 1978 and 1977:

	1978	1977
	(In thousands of dollars)
Land	$ 394,229	$ 334,232

Less accumulated depreciation and amortization	265,114	206,358
	$1,518,597	$1,250,245

In order to properly match costs with revenues, interest on borrowings, rent charges and real estate taxes related to the development of new restaurant property are capitalized through the development period (see "Summary of significant accounting policies").

If all interest had been expensed when incurred, net income as reported for the preceding five years would have been reduced by the following amounts: 1978—$2,600,000; 1977—$1,600,000; 1976—$1,300,000; 1975—$1,600,000; and 1974—$2,700,000. These amounts are after reductions for amortization of capitalized interest and related income tax effects.

Rent and real estate taxes capitalized for the last five years were as follows: 1978—$2,500,000; 1977—$2,200,000; 1976—$1,400,000; 1975—$1,900,000; and 1974—$2,400,000.

Depreciation and amortization expense, including amortization of property under capital leases, for the last five years was as follows: 1978—$75,374,000; 1977—$62,124,000; 1976—$51,429,000; 1975—$43,824,000; and 1974—$33,026,000.

For information related to property under capital leases, refer to the "Lease of properties owned by others" section.

Intangible assets

Remaining costs of the underlying rights to the McDonald's System, trademarks and tradenames, acquired by the Company in 1961, amounted to $1,839,000 at December 31, 1978 and 1977.

The Company has reacquired certain unlimited term territorial franchise and operating rights. The unamortized cost of these rights amounted to $14,609,000 and $14,701,000 at December 31, 1978 and 1977, respectively, of which $11,760,000 is not being amortized.

The Company and its subsidiaries have also reacquired limited term franchise rights in conjunction with the purchase of businesses operating McDonald's restaurants under limited term franchise agreements. The unamortized costs of such rights totaled $26,302,000 and $25,468,000 at December 31, 1978 and 1977, respectively.

Debt financing and dividend restrictions

Long-term debt, other than obligations under capital leases, consists of the following at December 31, 1978 and 1977:

	1978	1977
	(In thousands of dollars)
Mortgage notes	$186,413	$196,916
Installment notes	161,080	121,335
8% % sinking fund notes	89,473
Revolving credit notes	85,000	80,000
Serial notes due 1980 to 1985	72,677	75,126
9% % notes due October 15, 1982	59,858	59,820
Promissory notes	14,945	30,218
Foreign credit agreement notes	11,832	14,239
Miscellaneous	7,380	12,060
	$688,658	$589,714

Mortgage notes (which mature over various terms to 20 years) relate to land and buildings purchased or constructed by the Company and its subsidiaries. These obligations are generally payable in monthly installments with interest rates ranging from 5.5% to 10.5% per annum. At December 31, 1978, land, buildings and improvements with an aggregate net book value of approximately $315,000,000 were mortgaged under these obligations.

The installment notes mature over various terms to 20 years and are payable in specified monthly or quarterly installments, including interest at rates ranging from 6.75% to 10.25%. Certain of the notes in the amount of $64,060,000 are subject to an interest rate adjustment after 10 years at the option of the note holders. In the event of such adjustment, the Company may, in the eleventh year, redeem these notes, at face value, in whole or in part. The terms of other notes aggregating $52,647,000 permit the Company to make prepayments, with specified penalties, after periods of 3 to 10 years from the note dates. Notes in the amount of $39,373,000 permit the Company to make prepayments, with specified penalties, at any time during the term of the notes. The remaining notes of $5,000,000 may not be prepaid.

Sinking fund notes of $100,000,000 were issued during 1978 at 99.50% of face amount and are shown net of unamortized discount of $427,000. Beginning June 15, 1979, the Company is required annually to pay to the Trustee, as a mandatory sinking fund, an amount sufficient to redeem $10,000,000 principal amount of the notes. The Company may make additional sinking fund payments of up to $10,000,000 in each year. The Company may make any sinking fund payment in cash, or by delivering notes or receiving a credit for notes previously redeemed (other than through the sinking fund), in each case at their principal amount. In 1978, the Company retired $10,100,000 of the notes. In addition to the sinking fund, the notes are redeemable, at the Company's option, in whole or in part, at any time between June 15, 1985 and maturity (June 15, 1988).

Notes issued under the Company's domestic revolving credit agreement with a group of banks are repayable in 15 to 18 months. The agreement may be terminated by any bank upon advance notice of at least 18 months. Notes outstanding may be prepaid at any time by the Company without premium or penalty. At December 31, 1978, the loans bear interest at 11.75% (the agent bank's prime rate) and at December 31, 1977, such interest rate was 7.75%. The agreement provides for a commitment commission of ½ % per annum on the daily unused portion of the total commitment of $100,000,000 ($80,000,000 at December 31, 1977) through the termination date of the agreement. The total loan commitment may be reduced by the Company at any time during the commitment period. In connection with this commitment and the related loans outstanding, the Company has informally agreed to maintain average compensating balances (not material) which are not restricted as to withdrawal. In addition, the agreement restricts the payment of cash dividends and the repurchase of capital stock of the Company during any fiscal year to 50% of the consolidated net income of the preceding fiscal year. Consolidated retained earnings not restricted for 1979 amount to $81,335,000.

Under the indentures covering the serial notes due 1980 to 1985, the 9½ % notes and certain of the installment notes, the Company and its subsidiaries are required to maintain certain ratios of net book value of stipulated real property to the principal amount of the outstanding notes and of net book value of property and equipment to funded debt. The indentures also require, for the preceding 12-month period, minimum earnings coverage of interest and rental expense and a minimum ratio of working capital generated from operations to funded debt at the end of the period.

Serial notes in the amount of $5,000,000 are due in annual installments of $2,500,000 on May 1, 1980 and 1981 and bear interest at 8.5% and 8.7%, respectively. The remaining notes of $68,000,000, which bear interest at 9%, are due in 1985. The latter notes were issued at 99.25% of face amount and are shown net of unamortized discount of $323,000 in 1978 and $374,000 in 1977. These notes are redeemable at the Company's option, in whole or in part, at any time between May 1, 1982 and maturity.

The 9½ % notes are net of unamortized discount of $142,000 in 1978 and $180,000 in 1977. The notes are redeemable at the Company's option, in whole or in part, at any time between April 15, 1981 and maturity.

Promissory notes outstanding at December 31, 1978 are due in installments in 1980 and 1981 and bear interest at rates ranging from 7.625% to 8.5%. The Company is permitted to make prepayments on certain of the notes.

The foreign credit agreement notes are repayable over periods up to 5 years. At December 31, 1978, the notes bear interest at 13.25% (.75% above the agent bank's base rate).

Aggregate maturities of long-term debt for the five years ending after December 31, 1978 are as follows: 1979—$39,568,000; 1980—$129,659,000; 1981—$40,442,000; 1982—$93,566,000; and 1983—$33,663,000.

Short-term notes payable to banks averaged $20,000,000 during 1978 and $19,900,000 during 1977 based on month-end balances, with maximum month-end balances during 1978 and 1977 of $27,500,000 and $31,400,000, respectively. The average interest rate on the loans outstanding at December 31, 1978 and 1977 was 10.4% and 7.9%, respectively. The monthly weighted average interest rate was 9.3% during 1978 and 7.3% during 1977. At December 31, 1978, the Company and certain of its subsidiaries have unused bank lines of credit available for short-term borrowing, with interest rates ranging from 7.5% to 12.5%, in the aggregate amount of $14,500,000. In connection with certain of these lines, and with short-term borrowings of a 50% owned domestic affiliate, the Company has informally agreed to maintain average compensating balances (not material) which are not restricted as to withdrawal.

Lease of properties owned by others

At December 31, 1978, the Company was lessee under ground leases (the Company leases the land and erects and owns the buildings) or improved leases (lessor owns the land and buildings), covering approximately 2,180 restaurant sites. Lease terms are generally for 20 to 25 years and in many cases, provide for one or more five-year renewal options. The Company is generally obligated for the cost of property taxes, insurance and maintenance. Other leases under which the Company is obligated are principally for office space and equipment.

☐ Capital leases

The Company was lessee under 1,390 improved leases at December 31, 1978. The building portions of 1,030 of such leases are capital leases. Future minimum rental payments related to the capitalized portion of improved leases in effect at December 31, 1978 are as follows:

	(In thousands of dollars)
1979	$ 13,890

☐ Operating leases

At December 31, 1978, the Company was lessee under noncancellable operating leases with terms in excess of one year covering (1) land related to 790 ground leases, (2) land related to 1,030 improved leases in which the building portion is capitalized, (3) land and buildings related to 360 improved leases in which the building portion is not capitalized, (4) land for additional parking, and (5) other property, principally office space and equipment. Future minimum lease payments related to these operating leases at December 31, 1978 are as follows:

Franchise arrangements

Franchise arrangements generally provide for payments to the Company based upon a percentage of sales, with a minimum payment. Among other things, the franchisee is provided the use of both land and building for a period of 20 years and is required to pay property taxes, insurance, maintenance, and initial location and license fees.

The book value of assets related to franchised restaurant locations was $864,000,000 as of December 31, 1978, after accumulated depreciation and amortization of $122,000,000.

Revenues from franchised restaurants for the five years ended December 31, 1978, with minimum payments summarized based upon the Company's real estate interest, consist of:

The Company has guaranteed the payment of loans relating to certain 50% or less owned affiliates and others. Such loans outstanding at December 31, 1978 on which the Company is guarantor approximated $47,100,000. The Company has also entered into a working capital maintenance agreement with lenders of an affiliate. Such agreement provides that the Company will take any and all action as may be necessary for the affiliate to pay its debts promptly. At December 31, 1978, the affiliate had total assets of $37,841,000 and obligations of $37,969,000 (including $25,427,000 to the lenders under the agreement).

Commitments to acquire property, certain of which are contingent upon future events, and contractual obligations to complete restaurants under construction at December 31, 1978 amounted to approximately $65,000,000.

At December 31, 1978, security deposit refunds which will become due for all years through 1983 approximate $5,800,000. Refunds payable for the individual years 1984 through 1998 range from approximately $1,500,000 to $5,300,000.

Other changes			201
Balance at December 31, 1978	40,599,305	$4,515	$92,484

At December 31, 1978, a maximum of 1,774,968 shares of common stock were reserved for issuance under the stock option plans.

The Company purchased 30,600 shares of its common stock on the open market in 1978 and 106,000 shares in 1977 in connection with the 1975 Stock Option Plan. During 1978 and 1977, 56,288 and 2,279, respectively, of these shares were issued in connection with the exercise of stock options.

Series preferred stock authorized for issuance totals 300,000 shares. No shares were issued or outstanding at December 31, 1978 or 1977.

Stock options and incentive plan

The Company adopted stock option plans in 1973 and 1975. Options to purchase a total of 1,345,347 shares under the 1975 plan may be granted to officers and key employees at prices not less than the fair market value of the stock at dates of grant. The plan terminates on May 4, 1980, but may be terminated earlier by the Board of Directors without affecting options then outstanding. The 1973 plan terminated on May 14, 1978 and no further grants can be made thereunder.

Certain options under the 1973 plan are qualified options under the Internal Revenue Code. These options become exercisable cumulatively, commencing on date of grant, in five equal annual installments. All qualified options expire five years from date of grant.

Non-qualified options granted under the 1973 and 1975 plans become exercisable cumulatively in five equal biennial installments commencing one year from date of grant and expire ten years from the date of grant.

The Options Committee has the authority to cancel outstanding qualified and non-qualified options with the consent of the optionee and to grant new non-qualified options in substitution therefor.

Information as to options at December 31, 1978 and 1977 and for the years then ended follows:

	1978		1977
	Option price per share	Number of shares	Option price per share	Number of shares
At December 31:
Options outstanding—
Qualified	$54	2,000	$54 to $72	4,900
Non-qualified	$42 to $54	1,508,254	$42 to $60	1,646,407
Options exercisable	$42 to $54	389,949	$42 to $72	287,099
Shares reserved for future grants		264,714		262,162
Option activity during the year:
Granted	$45 to $51	58,891	$42 to $46	1,704,949
Cancelled	$42 to $72	89,550	$50 to $72	1,124,564
Exercised	$42 to $46	110,394	$42	16,372

In 1977, previously outstanding options (including options granted in 1977) were cancelled and reissued at lower option prices. Such transactions account for most of the options cancelled in 1977.

For options exercised under the 1973 plan and under the 1975 plan prior to November 1, 1977, stock was issued from authorized but unissued shares of the Company. For options exercised under the 1975 plan since November 1, 1977, stock was issued from shares previously reacquired by the Company on the open market. The difference between the amount received per share and (1) the stated per share amount in the common stock account or (2) the cost of treasury shares is recorded in additional paid-in capital. No amounts are included in the consolidated statement of income in accounting for the options. Any income tax benefits realized by the Company are credited to additional paid-in capital.

The Company adopted an incentive plan in 1978 whereby performance units and stock appreciation rights were granted in tandem with certain stock options. The value of such performance units and stock appreciation rights is dependent upon the Company's operating results and the market value of its stock, with stipulated maximum amounts. Generally, the performance units and stock appreciation rights are exercisable when the related stock options become exercisable. Amounts charged to costs and expenses in 1978 related to the incentive plan were $814,000.

Net income per share

Net income per share is computed based on (a) the average number of common and common equivalent shares (issuable under dilutive stock options) outstanding during each year (40,667,465 in 1978; 40,565,959 in 1977; 40,518,965 in 1976; 40,376,193 in 1975; and 40,288,145 in 1974), and (b) reported net income, reduced in 1974 by dividend requirements on the outstanding preferred stock prior to its retirement.

Certain potentially dilutive securities were outstanding prior to 1975. The maximum possible dilution would not have had a material effect on reported net income per share for the year 1974.

Profit sharing plan

The Company and its domestic subsidiaries have a trusted savings and profit sharing plan covering all employees who have attained 25 years of age and have one year of eligible service, as defined. Company contributions are determined by the Board of Directors and are limited to the maximum amount deductible for federal income tax purposes. Amounts contributed were: 1978—$9,257,000; 1977—$7,500,000; 1976—$4,900,000; 1975—$3,150,000; and 1974—$2,400,000.

Replacement cost information (unaudited)

As required by a rule of the Securities and Exchange Commission, the Company will present unaudited replacement cost information in its annual report to the Commission on Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 1978. This information will indicate that the replacement cost of the Company's productive capacity (principally restaurant buildings and equipment) exceeds the historical cost of acquiring such capacity and that depreciation and amortization expense based upon the average current replacement cost is greater than the amount calculated based on historical cost under generally accepted accounting principles. Replacement cost of inventories would be essentially the same as historical cost.

The replacement cost information to be presented in Form 10-K is based on the hypothetical assumption that the Company would replace its entire productive capacity as of December 31, 1978 and 1977. It is improbable that circumstances would ever require such total replacement at any one time, or that the Company would bear all the cost of such replacement. Additionally, the estimated amounts are based on certain subjective judgments and may be affected by errors inherent in the estimation process. For these reasons, the Company makes no representation that the replacement cost information will be useful or meaningful.
